1. Introduction

Preliminaries, especially usage of new words

Imagine that there are some Africans, African-Americans, and global people of African descent (Brazilians, Columbian, Fijians, Haitians, Jamaicans, Venezuelans, etcetera) who are sick and tired of implicit or explicit white supremacy. Suppose that they believe that, for most black people, things have not gotten better over decades of time, even with President Obama's election. They recognize that a few black people have done well. They know, however, that Malcolm's Black Nationalism never got off the ground. They know that Martin's magnificent Southern Christian Leadership Conference is now virtually dead. They know that Kwame's dream of the United States of Africa nightmared into an impotent African Union. They know that just reparations were stillborn by the International Monetary Fund, World Trade Organization, and World Bank. They know that Lyndon's War on Poverty was torpedoed in the Tonkin Gulf. They know that far too often white people's corporate-political system, rendered incarceration, disease, lifetime unemployment, disenfranchisement, and unpayable debts for black people. They know that white cops kill black people (including black cops) even in New York City and get away with it. They believe that the economic calculations of white and yellow people may indicate that African people, the world over, will be sick and impoverished for another 600 years. As you see, I do not capitalize the inaccurate adjective "black" in describing us as it would be no more appropriate, in my opinion, than would the adjective "rich." Some of us, such as some Senegalese people, are blessed by having skin coloration nearly black. Some of us, such as Oprah, are blessed by having assets of more than a million dollars. We have/ create proper names for ourselves that are properly capitalized.

This imagined group of Africans (Source-Ken), African-Americans (Source-Ken-United States), and global Africans (Source-Ken Global) takes courage! We abbreviate these names as SK, SKUS, and SKG, respectively. This virtual group fights back! These mental martial maestros are the masters of mind. These are the "WE" in what is written below. You, dear reader, may be startled by this writing. You may even be reviled by it. Fine, place your body wherever you please, but does your brain belong on the bus's back seat? The soul of Sister Rosa Parks won't let you do that! Improve on what you don't like in the thinking inherent in this writing. Then you are an equal part of the "WE."

Since the entire human family is simply an African family, in principle, all of humanity can be part of the "WE." Many people who have benefitted from the macro-criminal activities that started before 1492 may have an initial negative visceral reaction to being part of the "WE." Even some members of the obviously-African family may not include themselves as part of the "WE." They may hate, for example, even thinking on what is written about God. Again, this writer will make it possible for factual mistakes to be corrected, especially in the Humrec (human record). Those who see or feel themselves as part of the “WE” may seek to truthfully generalize and remove unwarranted negativity from these writings. Now, onward...

I believe that it is essential to change how we, Source-Ken World (all African looking people), see ourselves in order to live well. We have not been living well, as a group, since the Portuguese attacked us in Source-Eth (Africa) in the 1400s. I feel that we must reorient our thinking. I believe that we must even write down spoken languages using new symbols. I think that we also should create a new more universal language, as some rappers may know. Language reformation is just one of the essential things that we must do in order to regain our rightful place. The language and symbols will be new ones of our creation, as we are the creators of language. The immediate measure of our successful change will be the unification of the people of Source-Eth Top Sahara (Sub-Saharan Africa) and the control of its human and material wealth within this generation, that is, by 2020 CE, but with all optimal speed. We will do this as we bring justice and reparations to the heroic people of Haiti also by 2020 CE, but with all optimal speed. The longer-term measure of our successful change will be fostering a world in which all sentient beings live out their natural species lifetimes on a sustainable Earth. The continued livability of the Eth (earth) for advanced life forms may be demanding it. We want to use essentially nonviolent methods in ways that bring all of humanity together. We will do this primarily by working on ourselves, our families, and our Organization(s) via the realization of goals. There was, for example, much positivity that flowed to humanity from our Civil Rights movements of the 1930s through the 1960s in the so-called United States (SUS). We will seek truth as humans can know it, and we will not shy away from telling the truth as we imperfectly know it. Although this is directed to Source-Ken World (SKW) whose ancestors were attacked, enslaved, and colonized, DNA results nearly conclusively show that all humanity is one African Family. I term all humanity as the Great-Global Source-Ken Family (GGSKF). We provide a way for everyone to join us as equals in evolving the “Principles for the GGSKF” which we describe in Chapter 15 of this Part as well as in realizing our goals.

I call this first part Source-Ken World Myth, Reality, and Vision. This Introduction serves as such for all five parts. I have no pretensions of perfection. I almost never give references in this work. I do this because the true human creators are often unknown or misrepresented. For example, the sc (so called) Pythagorean triples (theorem) is an original Source-Ken (African) creation. Centuries later, the people of Iraq (Babylon) used or perhaps recreated this mathematical concept. A millennium later, Pythagoras was born. In the white supremacy education system of the SUS, the true Source-Ken creation of this mathematical idea is almost never taught. Source-Ken seminal creations/ inventions are overlaid, camouflaged, misrepresented, and even denied by others who usually deny their own direct Source-Ken nature. This abomination may give incentive for Source-Ken World to mount another great period of creation. You may regard this section or even the entire book as more myth than reality. I expect that it will all be sorted out in the Humrec. Fundamentally, all language and thought derives from Source-Ken work. Even the physical structure of the human brain is primarily a co-invention of primates in Source-Eth with Azain (Nature).

I do intend for this work to be iterative in the sense that others can eliminate errors and expand the ideas expressed in it. Everything I write here is true to the best of my knowledge, nevertheless. I believe that this five part work, of which this is Part 1, can give us the tools for getting out of our troubles and live well again. Good action usually starts with clear thinking with the best available information. The Source Institute and the Humrec may provide vehicles for such thought and information. A discussion of this is given later in this book.

There are eighteen chapters in Part 1. Chapter subsection titles are meant to give key words or ideas. I use radically new words and acronyms thereof. It is my intention to define these new words sufficiently often for you to learn the meanings. For chapters having many subsections, I write the new word with its usual meaning in parenthesis, e.g., Source-Ken (African). The next time I use the word in that section, I write the word with its acronym in parenthesis, e.g., Source-Ken (SK). Subsequently in that section, I write the acronym only, e.g., SK. There was a critical event for us. It is read as “in the wake of Prince Henry the non-navigator.” Its acronym is WPHN (see the last subsection in Section 5 for a discussion of the term). I usually use the acronym WPHN in this writing without giving its meaning. I also use the acronym sc for the term so-called. These new words are more carefully defined in the section Definitions and Abbreviations of Part 2. This work is meant to apply to everyone, but especially to African-Americans, Africans, Global-Africans, and World Africans. Again, DNA-wise, all of humanity is one African family. I have exceedingly great empathy for the progeny of the people that were in this hemisphere in 1491CE, the genocided people of Tasmania, and the dispossessed people around the world, especially of India. I, unfortunately, do not know them as well as I know Source-Ken World, I cannot write with the same presumptive authority for these equally wonderful people as I can for Source-Ken World.

We are expanding the vision of the Sankofa bird. Its all important backward sight is the nearly instantaneously accessed Humrec. Its head moves in every direction for we do not know from where new knowledge will come. Its focus always returns to the direction of realizing its goals.
